

CGI Trade360

Global Trade Banking

Meeting the global needs of trade banks and their customers

When your customer says:

“I want to be treated as a global customer and receive consistent service and products across my worldwide relationship with the bank.”

With CGI Trade360, your customers will receive a superior and consistent customer experience along with a broad range of products across your global network, including the following:

- CGI Trade360 Portal, which gives customers anytime, anywhere access to your global trade network and provides user friendly and robust capabilities
- Instantaneous answers to customer service queries for the customer’s business worldwide
- Widest range of products on the market, including traditional trade, payables, receivables, collateral and cash
- High quality service with fast turnaround times that can be tracked by competitive service level agreements

When a bank needs to build a world-class and truly global trade business that delivers a superior customer experience and strong operating efficiencies...

CGI Trade360 was built by trade finance experts to provide a platform that empowers a truly global trade business, eliminating fragmented customer service, inefficient operations and a lack of visibility. It offers the following advantages:

- Enables a bank to operate its entire trade business on a single instance of the platform, eliminating scalability constraints and fragmentation costs
- Provides traditional trade, payables, receivables, cash and collateral management offerings with continuous evolution to meet changing market needs
- Provides a globally consistent and superior customer experience at every touchpoint, including all customer sales and service channels
- Delivers the building blocks to support virtually any operating model, which when coupled with its highly automated processing, results in unsurpassed efficiency
- Offers the option to impose policies and controls globally while adapting to local requirements, and the visibility to manage the global business and its risks in real time from a rule-based platform
